

ISAT Data Wizard

Tired of struggling with spreadsheets and pivot tables?

Anguished by the mounds of paper on the table when you and your curriculum committee start to analyze test score data?

Worried about asking the right questions and getting the right answers?

Worried that you have things missing in your curriculum?

The ISAT Data Wizard simplifies the process of working with ISAT data. The concept is simple.

Your school's ISAT data is uploaded to a secure, password-protected server, where it is converted into a database, which in turn is viewable with a standard web browser.

You click a hyperlink and instantly have access to dozens of color-coded reports and tables. It's that simple.

Data-driven discussions require access to data

Data-driven discussions let teachers use data as a foundation for talking about students' needs. Meaningful discussion often leads to helpful decisions that may improve instruction and curriculum. Having access to the data is the beginning of the process.
